Four companies of the First infantry from San Francisco have already arrived ... are expected to-day to re... ...join the Second

A scout came in yesterday and reported that the main body of the hostiles had moved back 12 miles from the agency and toward the Bad Lands on the north Another arrived last evening and reported the Indians indulging in a wild war dance only eight miles from here

A party of Indian scouts visiting the scene of Monday's battle found nine Indians who were wounded in the fight still alive Two of them had been taken to a log house near by and were being cared for by a squaw that had remained behind The other seven all of whom were found lying in gullies remote from the battlefield survived the blizzard without attention of any kind Two were bucks and the other five were squaws There was scarcely life enough left in any of the seven to pay the scouts for bringing them in but they did so and they are now with the others in the Episcopal church In addition to the nine adults found two tiny Indian babies neither of them over three months old were found alive, each beside the dead body of its mother They were well wrapped up but how they ever survived the fearful weather is a miracle The little innocents were brought to the agency and found friends in the wives of some of the Indian scouts

Of thirty five wounded Indians brought in after the battle nearly all of whom were squaws and children, not one has as yet died Many of them are badly mangled with bullets

The rear guard of the party of charity doing scouts who went out on their search for wounded Indians were the first to exchange shots with the roving hostiles After the battle the Indian scouts went over the field and picked up all the disabled hostiles they could find before the troops were compelled to hurry in here and protect the agency from the uprising that occurred as previously described

The Indian scout that fell at Wounded Knee was given a military burial yesterday by his comrades under command of Lieutenant Taylor the Rev Mr Cook presiding

The snowstorm that has been raging for twenty-four hours has ceased The weather is warmer and as a result the vigilant outlook for a surprise by the hostiles which was allowed to lapse during the war of elements has been resumed None of the wounded soldiers are any worse and most of them seem a little better

Nearing the Crisis

OMAHA January 2—The Bee special from Rushville says It is definitely known that hostiles to the number of about 1100 are fortified near the mouth of White Clay creek, and that General Brooke with detachments of troops is swinging round to the north of them General Carr is supposed to be approaching from the west, and General Miles will make a dash from the south The force thus engaged is thought to be ample for the annihilation of the entire band unless some unforeseen complication or misfortune arises

Embassadors from the hostile camp have to-day again been suing for peace and offering to surrender their arms It is not known here whether terms will be granted or not, but the general opinion prevails that in view of the actions of the rebels in slaughtering the troops while under the flag of truce not much weight will be given their pretended repentance That the hostiles have been largely reinforced within the last two days there is hardly any doubt There seems reasonable grounds for rumors that some Indians from other agencies or the British possession have joined them

A report has just reached here by courier that a foraging party of Indians from the main camp on White Clay attacked the ranch of Douglass Points, a few miles to the west, last night, killed him and drove away his 400 head of cattle

A great row is reported to have broken out in the camp of the hostiles the contention being as to the advisability of surrendering This also is not confirmed but comes through a half-breed courier who claims to have just arrived from their camp Except in case of unconditional surrender there will undoubtedly be a great battle before night

A Scout's Story.

OMAHA January 2 —A special to the Bee from Pine Ridge says A scout just in from the hostiles says that fourteen cavalry horses with saddles and other equipments were brought into the hostile camp last night by young warriors The scout heard the hostiles make remarks to the effect that there were fourteen less soldiers to fight and the hostiles only lost two warriors in getting the fourteen cavalry horses, etc The scout's report creates a new sensation here which is being followed up with increased activity around military headquarters That the intelligence means that a battle or skirmish has taken place, in which Brooke's or Carr's command has lost men, there is little doubt

Emerging from the Drifts

KANSAS CITY, January 2 —The last of the belated passenger trains stalled on the Kansas prairies in yesterday's snow storm did not reach the union depot until 5 o clock this afternoon It was the Santa Fe train from the southwest The Burlington and Missouri passenger trains which were stalled near Atchison last night on the prairie, were reached by the relief trains early this morning The passengers had experienced no inconvenience beyond an unbroken fast from yesterday noon The trains were due out from the huge drifts and arrived here a little before noon All the snow bound trains now have been accounted for excepting one—the Missouri Pacific from Pueblo Nothing had been heard of it at the union depot The officials say it was probably abandoned at Pueblo and was not sent out at all All the roads in Kansas have been cleared and traffic was resumed on regular schedule time this evening

Will Test the Law

DENVER, January 2 A Washington special says Judge Morse goes to Philadelphia and will to-morrow present the silver bar to the mint at that place and ask that it be coined free of charge If this is not done he will apply to the courts to compel the treasury to receive it He has retained ex Attorney General Garland as counsel

New York Theatres Burned

NEW YORK January 3 —Eighteen years ago to-day the Fifth Avenue theatre near the Fifth Avenue hotel on the Twenty fourth street side disappeared in flames and smoke within a short time after Augustine Daly had the old Apollo hall where the famous committee of seventy had its birth changed into a playhouse

To-night fifteen minutes or so after Fanny Davenport, in the character of Cleopatra had trod the boards of the Fifth Avenue theatre and the audience had passed out of the Broadway and Twenty fourth street entrances a watchman ran out of the theatre screaming "fire" A few seconds later fire engines were dashing up Broadway and until nearly 1 o clock this morning new detachments were still responding to additional signals for help

What was at first believed to be a false alarm proved to be one that destroyed a whole block upon Broadway besides the Fifth Avenue theatre Hermann's new play house a dozen stores and threatened the Sturtevant house on the east side of Broadway, between Twenty eighth and Twenty ninth streets

Up to this writing while the fire is raging, no lives are known to have been lost There were a dozen or more narrow escapes

The fire had been burning less than half an hour before the flames shot through the roof, causing the wildest consternation among the guests of the Brower house, on the northeast corner, and the Sturtevant house The shower of sparks which covered the pavement of Broadway also set fire to the awning of the latter

To add to the confusion there were six explosions in the Fifth Avenue theatre which blew the burning rafters sky high, and those set fire to the roofs of the buildings surrounding the burning theatre While the firemen were powerless to do anything towards saving the play houses, they worked nobly in preventing the destruction of the houses in the vicinity of the immense blaze

All the property burned belongs to the Gilsey estate, and the total damage to the building and its contents is roughly estimated at $500,000

Manager Harry Miner was early on the scene, as was also Professor Hermann While the former saved nothing from the wreck, the professor and his wife worked like beavers Mrs Hermann saved her four pet doves, but her husband sorrowfully said that his favorite trick apparatus, worth $20,000, was lost to him forever

Hermann's new theatre which he recently rebuilt at considerable expense was found to be on fire after the fourth explosion

The Fifth Avenue theatre, at the time of its destruction, was being managed by Harry Miner On December 23 last Fanny Davenport made her appearance in Sardou's play of Cleopatra about the title of which there is some dispute and legal troubles The actress has been greeted by large audiences, and it was expected Cleopatra would have a long run but in half an hour's time the scenery, costumes and building vanished in fire and smoke

It was very lucky indeed that the fire did not break out during the performances, for it is claimed that the play houses were well patronized, and it seems odd too that in so short a space of time the fire should have gained such headway with a watchman inside the building This is the mystery which Fire Marshal Mitchel will be called upon to solve, and what caused the explosions is another puzzling question for the same official

Up to the time of going to press the walls were standing and the fire still burning The Fifth Avenue is a complete wreck, and Hermann's is not much better

Fanny Davenport's loss is said to be about $50 000

A Stage Superstition

NEW YORK, January 2 —The World says A curious confirmation of a stage superstition is worthy of note in this connection When Miss Davenport saw the scenery of the second act she cried out in dismay at seeing the wings on the symbol of Osiris, the winged sun on the drop, and declared she would not play under it She was told that it was essential to the Egyptian character of the scene, and persuaded to abandon her superstition "Very well, I will play" she said "but bad luck will follow" The bad luck seems to have been foretold First, the seizure of her costumes by the customs house officials, and now the destruction of the theatre by fire

During the performance in the theatre last night a sharp odor of smoke was noticeable, and before Henry C Miner left the theatre he went all over it and made a personal investigation but without discovering anything It was said that he had a strong impression that something was going to happen, and spoke to some of the orchestra of the possibilities of fire in the theatre He appeared perfectly satisfied though when he left the theatre, and was the last man out

Six Firemen Perish.

NEW YORK January 3 —According to the Herald six firemen lost their lives by the fire in the Hermann theatre The Herald's story is as follows Six firemen had gone through Hermann's theatre to the roof and had just succeeded in hoisting a length of rope up when the furnace opened directly at their feet Five of them could not be seen from the street, but one stood outlined against the sea of flame that rose from the burning buildings A shout was made for scaling ladders by the firemen on Broadway but before they could be procured the fireman was seen to take a farewell look at the crowd below and then deliberately walk into the flames and disappear A deadly silence that lasted for a full moment resulted and then a moan of agony arose from the crowd Firemen were seen to bend their heads and wipe away tears that they could not prevent from flowing

Among the Railways

(Associated Press Daily Railroad Special.)

CHICAGO, January 2 —The report that the Rock Island company had given notice to the Union Pacific that it must discontinue its use of the Rock Island tracks was denied by President Cable That official said to-day that his road had not yet commenced operations under the contract No notice of any kind had been given him by the Union Pacific If the latter road had discontinued the use of the Rock Island's tracks it had done so of its own accord

John M Thurston in a published interview is quoted as saying that an agreement was entered into by Vice President Bond of the St Paul and Jay Gould in New York for the temporary use of the Union Pacific bridge and that President Miller refused to accept it The point made is that the Union Pacific made a fair offer to the St Paul road and the tenor of the interview implies that it is not the fault of the Union Pacific that the St Paul is not running trains into Omaha although no attempt is made to conceal the intention to block the Rock Island from making a competing line to Denver

In regard to this matter President Miller said to-day The arrangement referred to by Mr Thurston was a suggested provisional agreement telegraphed to me by Mr Gould Our people in New York advised me that it was not agreed to by them but was left to my decision They did not even recommend it I rejected it under the advice of our counsel that it was a very dangerous experiment for several reasons First It made the new contract terminate on thirty days notice second it held its right to run our trains to Omaha and not South Omaha third it left open the question of compensation fourth if the present contract is not binding for the reasons claimed by the Union Pacific it may be brushed aside at the will of Jay Gould What security can we have for even a day under a provisional and informal agreement terminable on thirty days notice? If the Union Pacific is sincere in its expressed desire to give us what we need to do our business properly, let it take the simplest and direct method of obedience to the order of the court, pending a judicial determination of the question whether there is any longer such an instrument as a contract Mr Thurston is lawyer enough to know that this course cannot prejudice the right of the Union Pacific, and he need not be surprised at a natural distrust of any provisional arrangement which is offered as a substitute for the simple and direct method of accomplishing the purposes later Mr Thurston claims that the Union Pacific claims to be fair to this company This leads one to inquire with some curiosity what process of reasoning has he satisfied himself that the summary repudiation of a plain and distinct contract has become the demonstration of a disposition to be fair"

The forthcoming number of the Railway Age, which will be issued to-morrow, will contain a review of the foreclosures and the receiverships of 1890. During the year twenty nine roads were sold under foreclosure The greatest of these was the St Louis, Arkansas & Texas, with over 1200 miles of line and representing nearly $58,000 000 in bonds and stocks Next in importance was the Ohio, Indiana & Western with 341 miles and about $34,000,000 in securities Next in order came the St Louis Fort Scott & Wichita, the Chicago & Atlantic, the Houston & Western Texas and the Scioto Valley These companies combined represent 3528 miles of road and about $182,000 000 of funded bonds and capital stock The number of railways that have gone into the hands of receivers during the year is twenty six, representing nearly 3000 miles of lines and over $105,000 000 of securities

The Indians' Side of the Story

NEW YORK, January 2 —The New York Freeman's Journal will publish to-morrow a letter from Father Craft, the Catholic Indian missionary who was recently killed by the Indians The letter was dated Pine Ridge agency, S D and is addressed to the editor of the Freeman's Journal Father Craft says in the beginning that the Indians hoped for much aid from the government to enable them to become like the whites They were, however, in every way abused, mocked and discouraged Instead of being wards they ha e felt they were the victims of unscrupulous politicians, who benefitted by their misery

Father Craft adds "I know what I say, for I have shared their sufferings for many years In their despair General Crook brought them hope Their confidence in him led them to hope that he would be able to realize their hopes His death was their death blow, and they felt it Indians are not fools, but men of keen intelligence Reductions in rations increased these fears Even the Indian agents protested against such cruelty Mr Lee who took the census made grave mistakes, counted less than the real numbers and made false representations of prosperity that did not exist It is not to be wondered that they believed in a Messiah whom they at first doubted and listened to every deceiver who promised hope Interested whites took advantage of this state of affairs and howled for troops The army indignant protested against their false statements but had to go to the scene of the supposed danger Interested whites persuaded them that entire destruction was the aim of the Indians and the Indians ran away in fear and despair Father Jules ... and I brought them back to the agency and the kindness of General Brooke convinced them of their safety The general's plan to send Indians after those still out was good and would have succeeded if the general were left alone Just as the tree can be traced from its smallest branch to its root so can the Indian troubles be traced to the starvation and misery of the Indians

At the conclusion of his letter Father Craft arraigned Commissioner Morgan in severe terms

Captured the Kicker

DENVER, January 2 —After an acquaintanceship of only two days Merrill Dow, the eighteen-year old son of Hon C H Dow president of the Commercial National bank was this afternoon secretly married to Miss Millie Price the high kicker in Donnelly and Girard's Natural Gas company now playing at the Tabor Grand After the ceremony the young lady returned to her hotel and the young husband to the bank, and the greatest effort made to keep the matter quiet

Miss Price appeared on the stage tonight and in an interview after the performance said she would keep right on with the company until the completion of her contract when her husband would join her and they would go to Europe

The senior Dow has not yet been made acquainted with his son's escapade and after the paternal interview to-morrow morning the young man will probably wonder if it was the bank building that fell upon him

PHILADELPHIA PENNSYLVANIA, December 27, 1890.

TO MY CUSTOMERS AND THE GENERAL PUBLIC

I have been ... in the East to have ascertained that banking and moneyed men, financiers and experts ... coincide in the opinion that the worst of the financial squeeze is over and that ... New Year's money will loosen up and find its way into generous circulation ... as being favorable to a lively REAL ESTATE business in Colorado Springs ... market to start the wheels of trade into active motion once again, and I confidently look to the year 1891 to develop the most prosperous real estate movement in the history of Colorado Springs All we want to do to aid this movement, is to show the confidence we have in our own ... and to make known to the world the extent and variety of our resources and what we have ... The whole... business appears to be increasing, ... the sales amounting to $38,370, ... that there will be a greater surprise ... amount of manufactures. Up to ... it has been very difficult to ... manufactories in Denver, but it ... as though Denver, like other ... western cities, would become some... of a manufacturing centre. THE PREVIOUS QUESTION

Not less ... is the bill to limit debate ... new rules voted by Speaker Reed at ... session of congress practically ... the character of the house as a ... ative body. Such rules as Speak... proposed might be used in the ... body of a parliamentary gov... but in this country the party is ... sible for its legislation in the ... that it is in England. There a... of the party in power must rule ... party give up its power. But in ... no such alternative is of ... No one is obliged to resign be... party is defeated in some par... measure. According to our system ... is a deliberative body, and a ... of the body is to rule, not a ... of the party dominating in that ... During the whole of the last ses... majority of the house enacted all ... important legislation. Though a ... of the members might favor a ... legislation, as free coinage, yet this ... was not allowed to amend the ... vote on a proposition which it ... to become a law. But even this ... would not have been so great had ... given a fair latitude for debate ... large number of members in the ... and the turbulent quality of its ... sometimes rendered the pre... question necessary in order ... facilitate business. But it is ... more honored in the ... than in the observance ... has not been great objection to ... use of this rule in the house, ... always been felt that any measure passed in the house would receive dignified and careful consideration in the senate. The very fact that there is no limit to debate, and that senatorial courtesy permitted every senator to speak for a reasonable length of time, on every subject that he was interested in, has been a safeguard against imprudent and impracticable legislation. If however, the previous question is ordered in the senate as it has been ordered in the house then we may expect a great deal of unwise legislation. Such a rule would not have been thought of had not certain members felt that it was necessary in order to get through the force bill. The rule is only to aid in passing partisan legislation. That of itself ought to kill it. Mr. Teller for his manly protest against this rule deserves the praise and thanks of all good patriots.

Comparisons between our system of government and the parliamentary system of England have been made recently by some American students who favor the English system. They do not like the system of checks in this government but prefer the government of strict party accountability like the English. But a practical knowledge of the working of our government and of the dangers it has escaped through the presence of these checks ought to convince every thoughtful person that not only is the work done by our forefathers wiser than the system of checks which they established. The English system has worked very well for the simple reason that its suffrage has not been so universal as ours and because of the conservative character of its population the extension of the suffrage is found to make a change in the English system. The conservative class is no longer known in English politics, unless it is represented by the liberal unionists. The tories resort to as many discreet pledges and to as many tricks as the demagogues of any party in order to get into power and retain power. The campaign of 1885 was a splendid illustration of this, when the Irish vote was cast solidly for tory candidates. Our form of government is the best one yet devised for universal suffrage. There are popular waves favoring greenback currencies, and various other fallacies that roll over this country, and if we had had a government without our present system of checks we should have passed much bad legislation.

There is hope that a few republicans in the senate will be brave enough to vote against the party leaders on the question of limitation of debate. Let us at least have one deliberative body in Washington which will act in the spirit of the constitution.

Express Train Wrecked

NEW YORK, January 2.—Express train No. 7, over the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western railroad, which left Hoboken for the west at 8 o'clock last night, met with a serious accident at West Paterson, N. J., an hour later. The train which was running at a high rate of speed, suddenly struck an open switch and crashed into a train of flat cars loaded with pig-iron. The engine, two passenger cars and sleepers were wrecked. None of the passengers were injured. Both the engineer and fireman were scalded in a frightful manner from escaping steam. The following are the wounded: Engineer Morris Long, left leg crushed and body scalded. Baggage-master Scanlon, leg crushed. Brakeman Bernard Foster, hurt about head caused by being thrown against a pile of iron.

Defiance to the Big Four

ST LOUIS, January 2.—Quite a stir has been created among the butchers of this city by the recent publication of the purpose of Messrs. Armour, Swift & Co. of Chicago, and Hammond of Baltimore, to acquire control of the National and Union stock yards of East St. Louis and St. Louis respectively.

Mr. Nat Courtney, one of the largest butchers of this city, says that the local butchers are going to give the big packers the cold shoulder. "It is a fact," said he, "that we have decided to build an abbattoir where we can handle cattle as cheaply and as advantageously as the largest concerns in the land. Our plant will cost about $100,000 and will have a capacity of 200 beeves and as many hogs per day. No matter what the Big Four say or do, our scheme of building an abbattoir will be carried out."

A Telegraph War Threatened.

CHICAGO, January 2.—A dispatch purporting to come from St. Louis and addressed to all members of the Order of Railway Telegraphers desires that all operators be persuaded to stay away from the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern railway and not fill the places of operators leaving that line. This would indicate that trouble between the railroad and its telegraphic force has already commenced, but the company's operators in this city say they know nothing of such trouble. It is suspected the dispatch is a bogus one.

No loss of life has been reported.

It has three rooms, two closets, a shingled porch, two shingled gables, is sheeted, sided, plastered with three coats, all painted including the roof, one room finished in plaster and oil, is fenced and will have hydrant water and good outbuildings. The price is only $1200. The terms are $100 cash, and $20 per month and it is a rare bargain for any one who desires to buy a home with the money that would otherwise be paid out for rent.

In the Rock Island Addition on car line, we have a fine house of five rooms, that has all manner of conveniences, full lot, that we offer on monthly payments of $30, which is just what such a house would rent for in the central part of the city.

On Salwat ... we have two lots left at $650 each which we will sell on monthly payments of $15. These are the cheapest lots left on the main plateau of the city, and the price will be advanced on January 15th.

The support was fully up to the standard made by Mr James when he first undertook to star and which was subject to much comment at the time for its merit Mr F C Mosley is still the leading support and as De Mauprat last night still further accentuated the good impression heretofore made Miss Victor's Bateman made a most charming Julie but was evidently suffering from a severe cold The play was handsomely costumed and staged

Recovered After Ten Months.

WILKESBARRE Pa January 2—It is impossible to imagine a more ghastly sight than the one presented in a little frame tool house near the head of the South Wilkesbarre shaft yesterday or a more horrible task than that performed by Undertaker R F Mooney and his assistants In the small room not more than twelve feet square were brought all that could be found of the bodies of eight men that had been lying for ten months 600 feet under ground By noon the remains of the last of these eight victims of the disaster of March 8 last had been recovered and brought to the surface The fragments as fast as identified were placed in neat caskets covered with black cloth They will all be interred in one grave in the Hanover cemetery to-morrow All the morning the shaft was surrounded by a large crowd of people, but the remains were screened from the gaze of the curious An inquest will be held as soon as the testimony can be collected

B W STEELE
Manager of the GAZETTE

It is too bad that the newspapers have adopted the word cloture. We have a very good expression for the same thing which is given in all our books of parliamentary law. It is the term previous question which carries its own meaning. The word cloture is a foreign word and it was unnecessary for it to be introduced. To the average mind it does not mean anything, and it is an affectation to use it.

We regret that we have not been able to furnish all the New Year's GAZETTES that have been demanded and we endeavored to get orders from our readers early so that we might make a correct estimate of the number needed. We supposed that we printed enough to meet the demand but it far exceeded our expectations and the edition was exhausted during the forenoon on Thursday. We hope that another year the orders will come in more promptly so that we may be able to fully anticipate the demand.

One of the best illustrations of the danger of allowing the one man power is seen in the passage of a bill providing for a public building at Bar Harbor. There is not a single bill before congress providing for an appropriation for a public building that is not more meritorious than the bill providing for a public building at Bar Harbor. Where there is one reason at Bar Harbor there are a hundred reasons for a public building at Colorado Springs. Yet Mr Reed announces to the house that the appropriations must be kept down and would not allow our bill to be considered. But as Bar Harbor is in his state he put that bill through. It is a case of gross favoritism which no man with a decent sense of justice would have permitted himself to take part in. President Harrison has not written any more meritorious state paper during his whole term of office than the veto of the Bar Harbor bill. If such a bill were to become a law there are 4 000 other places that ought immediately to have public buildings.

The Denver Republican, in its New Year's edition, made a splendid showing for Denver. From this it appears that the real estate transactions for the year 1890 amounted to $65 929 923. In building there have been expended $16 541,623. A comparison of this with the building for 1888 and 1889 which were considered prosperous years will give some idea of how much was done. In 1888 the building amounted to $5 700 000 in 1889 it was $10 777 175. The wholesale business appears to be increasing largely, the sales amounting to $38 870,456. But there will be a greater surprise at the amount of manufactures. Up to this time it has been very difficult to start manufactories in Denver, but it looks now as though Denver, like other large western cities would become something of a manufacturing centre. The value of the product last year was $44 075 802. This is more than a third greater than in 1889 and represents an increase in wages for labor of a million and a half. The character of the building is shown in detail. It appears that 2317 dwellings thirty four business blocks twelve hotels four churches and seven school houses were built. This showing for Denver is a matter of congratulation for the whole state. The leading city of the state reflects in a large measure its condition. If Denver is prosperous the rest of the state is.

THE PREVIOUS QUESTION

It is a matter of pride that Colorado senators have taken a decided stand against two iniquitous measures which are generally admitted to be for partisan purposes. Not since 1875 has the party declared for any enactment of a force bill. Blaine, Garfield and a host of leaders at that time put themselves squarely against it. The feeling is even more strong to day than it was at that time in the rank and file of the party. No northern state would be willing to submit to the situation which we are trying to force the south into. Not less dangerous is the bill to limit debate. The new rules voted by Speaker Reed at the last session of congress practically destroy the character of the house as a deliberative body. Such rules as Speaker Reed proposed might be used in the legislative body of a parliamentary government but in this country no party is not responsible for the legislation in the same sense that it is in England. There a majority of the party in power must give up the party give up its power. But in this country no such a creative is offered. No one is obliged to resign because the party is defeated on a measure than measure. According to our system congress is a deliberative body and a majority of the body is true not a majority of the party dominating in that body. During the whole of the last session a minority of the house enacted all the important legislation. Though a majority of the members might favor a certain question as free coinage yet this majority was not allowed to amend the bill or vote on a proposition which it wished to become a law. But even this evil would not have been so great had there been a fair latitude for debate. The large number of members in the house and the turbulent quality of its proceedings sometimes rendered the previous question necessary in order to facilitate business. But it is a rule more honored in the breach than in the observance. There has not been great objection to the existence of this rule in the house because it has always been felt that any measure passed in the house would receive dignified and careful consideration in the senate. The very fact that there is no limit to debate and that senatorial courtesy permitted every senator to speak for a reasonable length of time on every subject that he was interested in, has been a safeguard against imprudent and impracticable legislation. If however the previous question is ordered in the senate as it has been ordered in the house then we may expect a great deal of unwise legislation. Such a rule would not have been thought of had not certain members felt that it was necessary in order to get through the force bill. The rule is ... passing partisan ... That of itself ought to kill it. Mr Teller ... his manly protest against this rule deserves the praise and thanks of all ... patriots.

Comparisons between ... systems of government and the ... system of England have ... American ... the English system. They do not ... the system of checks ... government but prefer the ... direct party accountability ... English ... practical ... of our government and of the dangers it has escaped ... these checks ought to convince every thoughtful person that ... the work done by our forefathers was wiser than the system of checks which they established. The English system has worked very well for the simple reason that its suffrage has not been so universal as ours and because of the conservative character of its population. The extension of the suffrage is bound to make a change in the English system. The conservative class is no longer known in English politics unless it is represented by the liberal unionists. The tories resort to as many means ... and to as many tricks as the demagogues of any party in order to get into power and retain power. The campaign of 1885 was a splendid illustration of this when the Irish vote was cast ... for tory candidates. Our form of government is the best one yet devised for universal suffrage. There are popular waves favoring greenback currencies and various other fallacies that roll over this country and if we had had a government without our present system of checks we should have passed much bad legislation.

There is hope that a few republicans in the senate will be brave enough to vote against the party leaders on the question of limitation of debate. Let us at least have one deliberative body in Washington which will act in the spirit of the constitution.

The New Year's Gazette.

Did you get a New Year's Gazette? There is a whole lot of satisfaction in it. It did you no good ... It was one of those occasions, in the Gazette's counting room Thursday morning. The columns of the paper for some time past had been filled with announcements regarding the paper and all were earnestly urged to get orders in ahead for the New Year's number. This many of the readers did until the total amounted to nearly 1,000 copies. White print paper is expensive, but a risk was taken on a large number more until the edition ran up towards the 10,000 mark. The paper proved more popular however than any one anticipated and hardly had the first sheets left the press when the purchasers began to crowd in. It only took an hour or two to exhaust the supply and those in charge had something of a struggle to preserve enough for the regular subscribers and for those who had taken the precaution to ... After the papers were exhausted it was sometimes rather amusing to watch the people and the efforts of the clerks to stand them off. Some would not take a refusal and would put their demands in the form of personal appeal or attempted ... Many showed their ignorance of what it requires to get out a newspaper and were mystified to learn that the presses could not be started up again and a few papers turned off for their special benefit. They kept coming all day yesterday and will for a week but it will do no good. It was the universal opinion that the issue was the most satisfactory yet gotten out and it would be a great satisfaction to the Gazette to know that every man woman and child in the county had been fully supplied, but it did its duty in the matter. The advertising to the community by the edition will be great. There is but one moral—the Gazette will have other editions of merit, and when you are warned do not get left.

Order of Chosen Friends

Mr W Williamson, of this city, having become impressed with the merits of the above order, is devoting his spare time to the organization of a council or lodge and believes he will be successful in securing a large charter list. The order is now in its twelfth year and has 45,000 members in the United States and Canada.

Besides its fraternal advantages it provides for its members a fund from which is paid in case of disease or accident, old age or death amounts from $500 to $3000 and all at one cost, and that one half to two thirds less than it would cost elsewhere for the same protection.

The Sick Benefit league of this division insures to its members sums of $5, $10 and $15 weekly in sickness for a period not exceeding twenty weeks, at an average cost of $4, $7 and $10 respectively. The Home Loan and Savings league is, however, the particularly grand feature of the order, paying greater profits to its members who deposit money with the league as an investment or loans money to Chosen Friends where with to buy or build for themselves homes and at less cost than in any similar institution of the kind in the country.

Persons of either sex can participate in the several features of the order and each shares equally in all its benefits.

The Salvation army was present in the police court yesterday afternoon in full force to witness the trial of one of their number for an alleged assault upon another warrior. The trouble arose out of the recent split in the ranks and probably will be the last of that disgraceful affair. Although the cause of the trouble, Cadet Fullerton, was taken away by the adjutant and the two factions again united, peace was lacking. A few days afterward the cadet was arrested in Trinidad in compromising circumstances and this rather embittered those who had once followed him. Thursday night a big meeting was in progress and Cadet Vandever made some observations which closely connected the bolters with his Satanic majesty and Private Stevens replied in kind. On the street after the meeting the discussion was continued. Brother Vandever told Brother Stevens that he needed—to quote his own words—"another souse in the fountain of life," and a few moments later Stevens dared the other to come around in the alley and settle the trouble. Vandever at once yelled "police" and Stevens was arrested. After hearing all the evidence in the case Judge Kinsley directed the two contestants to shake hands, which they did and he then announced the case dismissed without costs adding, however that the next time any trouble arose from the Salvation army there would be heavy fines imposed.

Natural Gas will be turned on at the opera house Monday evening by Donnelly and Girard and an excellent company. The Chicago Mail says: "The return of Henry V Donnelly and Eddie Girard to the Chicago opera house last night with H Grattan Donnelly's effervescent musical farce comedy 'Natural Gas' was greeted with every indication of a revival of the popularity of last year. The house was crowded and the audience so earnestly appreciative that nearly everything musical in the skit had to be given two or three times. The company is an improvement over that of last year in several particulars and the piece goes from start to finish with a verve and swing that nearly bewilders one, in such rapid succession do the situations, songs, dances and events follow each other. Mr. Girard has introduced some funny new songs and dances and the Donnelly's work is new, catchy and original. 'Natural Gas' hasn't a great deal of plot and what it has is made up of cross purposes and extravagances, but a bright sparkling and exhilarating."

Mr James D Miller, the father of Messrs. J. W. and J K Miller drug ... of this city died Thursday afternoon at the residence of Mr J K Miller on North Nevada avenue. He was in his sixtieth year and had been a resident of this city only a few months, coming from Eaton, O. He was buried from the residence yesterday afternoon, the Odd Fellows and Knights of Honor participating in the services. Interment was at Evergreen cemetery.

Mrs Charles Cross, of Manitou who with her husband was thrown from a buggy Wednesday afternoon on the road to Colorado City died last night at 8 o'clock. After being taken to Manitou Mrs Cross became unconscious and remained so until relieved by death. Her arm was broken and there were bruises upon the head and body but none of the wounds were thought to be serious at the time. Mrs Cross was about 56 years of age and was a sister of Dr. Isaac Davis of Manitou. Mr Cross is doing very well under the circumstances.

James in Richelieu.

The annual appearance of Louis James, the well known tragic actor, is hailed with pleasure by the theatre goers of Colorado Springs. Mr James finds Colorado Springs a pleasant place and usually gives us two performances. This city is a place enough for a few nights stand and hence he is not usually greeted by the large audiences that other state of the same magnitude meet. Mr James is the greatest exponent of the ... school now on the American stage and was seen in this city for the first time last night in Bulwer Lytton's Richelieu. Mr James has many admirers here and his interpretation of the character of the great cardinal must have been very satisfactory. Richelieu is a lost real drama woven with the poetic fibre and pictures of strength in the art of which Bulwer was a master hand. It covers diplomacy and tragic love, pride, defeat and victory and is alive with the stirring movements of the conspiracy of which it is the history. Like all of Bulwer's plays it is essentially romantic, not tragic.

Mr. James is qualified intellectually and physically by education and dramatic training to adequately interpret the character of Richelieu as portrayed by the dramatist, and his rendition proved a revelation.

The support was fully up to the standard made by Mr James when he first undertook to star and which was subject to much comment at the time for its merit. Mr F C Mosley is still the leading support and as De Mauprat last night still further accentuated the good impression heretofore made. Miss Victoria Bateman made a most charming Julie but was evidently suffering from a severe cold. The play was handsomely costumed and staged.

This evening Mr James and company will be seen in "Macbeth."

Mr B B Williams a popular caterer who has already established a thriving business in this city, served the elegant lunch at the assembly ball last night. Mr Williams can be addressed postoffice box 866.

The foot ball contest New Year's afternoon between the Colorado Springs and Denver Athletics resulted in a hard won victory for the Denvers. There were fully 500 people in attendance and the enthusiasm was intense. This is the last league game of the season, which leaves the pennant with Golden.

Mr. L. C. Dana, city marshal of Colorado Springs, was married at noon Thursday to Mrs Ruth Bridenstine. The bride formerly lived in this city, and is quite well known. The ceremony occurred at Fairbury, Neb., and the happy couple departed at once for a two weeks' visit among friends in Illinois, when they will return and make their residence in this city.

Max Kestner, one of the deaf boys in the state school, inflicted a very severe wound on his arm Thursday morning while playing with gunpowder. He filled a gas pipe and plugged both ends, leaving a small opening through which to touch it off. After the explosion there was a hole in the ground and one also in his arm which Doctors Moore and Anderson dressed.

Recovered After Ten Months.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., January 2.—It is impossible to imagine a more ghastly sight than the one presented in a little frame tool house near the head of the South Wilkesbarre shaft yesterday or a more horrible task than that performed by Undertaker R F Mooney and his assistants. In the small room not more than twelve feet square were brought all that could be found of the bodies of eight men that had been lying for ten months 600 feet under ground. By noon the remains of the last of these eight victims of the disaster of March 3 last had been recovered and brought to the surface. The fragments, as fast as identified were placed in neat caskets covered with black cloth. They will all be interred in one grave in the Hanover cemetery to-morrow. All the morning the shaft was surrounded by a large crowd of people, but the remains were screened from the gaze of the curious. An inquest will be held as soon as the testimony can be collected.

The Road to Wealth!

Cannot be successfully traveled without good health. To reach wealth or any coveted position in life requires the full possession and operation of all the faculties kind nature has endowed us with. These conditions cannot exist unless the physical being is in perfect working order and this is impossible when the liver and spleen are torpid, thus obstructing the secretions, causing indigestion and dyspepsia with all of their accompanying horrors.

Dr. Henley's English Dandelion TONIC.

Exerts a specific influence over the liver, excites it to healthy action, resolves its chronic engorgements, promotes the secretions, and cures indigestion and constipation, sharpens the appetite, tones up the entire system and makes life worth living. The finest Suburban Residence Location - combining view of mountain and plain in the state Beautiful parks, overgrown with large pine trees unequalled as a health location Pure air, pure water, and plenty of it, both for domestic and irrigating purposes. No smoke! No dust! The track of the Electric Car Line is already laid from one of the parks in the center of this property to the city limits. Electric Cars are now running, bringing this property within fifteen minutes' ride from the postoffice. Several fine residences will be erected on this property at an early date Special Inducements offered for the next 60 days to parties buying lots with the intention of building at once. Why locate in the smoke and dust of our city when such an opportunity is offered? Each lot contains from one to four acres. Specially adapted for fine residences This location speaks for itself. All that we ask is an inspection of the property before purchasing.

FIRE, FIRE, FIRE! As the cold wave sets in we read in every paper of FIRES. Look after your INSURANCE and be safe. We represent only FIRST-CLASS COMPANIES and guarantee prompt and equitable adjustment in case of loss. Call at office and take out INSURANCE that INSURES.
